From the New York Knickerbocker. A REMEMBRANCE.

The undying hope away of memory born?
Hope of re-union, heart to heart, at last,
No restless doubt between, no rankling thorn?

I see thee still ! thou art not dead, I see thee still! thou art not dead,
Though dust is wringling with thy form;
The broken sun-beam hath not shed
Its final rainbow on the storm:
In visions of the midnight deep,
Thine accents through my bosom thrill,
Till joy's fond impulse bids me weep—
For, wrapt in thought, I see thee still!

I see thee still, -that cheek of rose,-Those lips with dewy fragrance wet, That forehead in serene repose,— Those soul-lit eyes,—I see them yet!

Sweet scraph! Sure thou art not dead,— Thou gracest still this earthly sphere, An influence still is round me shed, Like thine,-and yet thou art not here! Thou art not here; and never more, Beneath the pale and sembre sky,

Will thy dear songs around me pour Their gush of holy, melody; Years may roll on, and Tithe may shed Some casual lustre from his wing; But my fair May of Love hath fled, For Love hath but one golden spring!

Farewell, beloved ! To mortal sight, Farewell, beloved! To mortal sight,
Thy vermeil cheek no more may bloom,
No more thy smiles inspire delight—
For thou art garnered in the tomb.
Rich harvest for the rathless power,
Which hath no bound to mar his will:—
Yet, as in hope's unclouded hour,
Throned in my heart, I see thee still!

Fatalism.—Moreau de St. Mery, a French exile, who kept a Book-store in Philadelphia, was a decided believer in destiny. He observed, in a conversation which I once held with him on this subject, that one ture worth double of the German. man might fall out of a three story window and be slightly, if at all, hurt,-while another, in crossing a gutter, or coming down stairs, would fall down and break a leg or an arm. In proof of his doctrine, he mentioned many of his own remarkable escapes, of which I remember but two: On one occasion, he had been condemned, and was on his way to the guillotine, when one of the Guarde Nationale, -- (a journeyman printer, to whom Moreau had done some kindness,) took hold of him, and asked, 'What do you here?'crying aloud, at the same time, 'This man is a good citizen, -I know him well.' Seizing him by the arm, he dragged him from among the crowd of victims, at a moment when he appeared to be on the verge of eter-

At another time, he was at Brest, waiting for a wind to the ruling powers. It had blown for several days due west. At length it veered about, and blew favorable for his voyage. The captain, to profit by it, sent a bellman through the city to summon the passengers to come aboard without delay. St Mery was seated at table, eating his dinner, but rose from his seat when he heard the bell, although he had but half finished his heard the bell, although he had but half finished his meal. The ship got immediately under way. She had not been out more than an hour, when a mandate arrived from Paris to arrest Moreau, and bring him to that the form Paris to arrest Moreau, and bring him to that the formerly Market st.

house where I had been dining, on some subject of trade and politics, which I engaged in unwillingly, in the idea that it was not very likely to interest the lady. I was soon rather astonished, I confess, to find her enter into the conversation with a knowledge of detail and a right perception of general principles which I did not expect. I EW BEEF.—New Mess Beef, packed expressly for vessels' stores "How do you think," said she to me, when I afterward expressed my surprise, "that I could meet my husband every evening at dinner, if I were not able to talk on the topics on which he has been employed in the morning?" An English fine lady would have settled the question very differently, by affirming, as an underna- Market street. ble proposition, that politics and such stuff were great bores, and that a man, to be agreeable, must talk of balls and operas, and dress.

Lady Warriors and Duelists .- At the battle of Jemmappes, Dumourier had for his aids-de-camp two of the most beautiful, the most del cate, and accomplished young women in society of the time; equally chaste and warlike, these modern Camillas felt a veneration for the profession of arms; they delighted in the smoke of the cannon and the sound of the trumpet. Often, a general told me, in the most desperate crises of the battle, he has heard their slender but animated voices reproaching flight and urging to the charge; "Où allez-vous, soldats? ce n'est pas là l'ennemi! En avant! suivez!" -and you might have seen their waving plumes and amazonian garb amid the thickest of the fire.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 29, 1835.

Washington, Saturday, Jan. 24. The question of the succession to the Presidential or is so important, as to render all others collateral to submitted by Mr Reynolds, of Illinois, some time ago, providing that all elections of officers by the House, made of choosing shall be in such way as will secure a atle more of representative accountability, than by the hallot system. The resolution, in short, is to carry out, to its fullest extent, the principle which entitles one-fifth of the members of each house to have the year and nays upon any question, entered upon the Journals.

fuch difficulty was experienced in getting up the subject for consideration—the usual trickery of calls of the house, yeas and nays, motions for the orders of the day, adjournment, &c., were resorted to but without effeet. The resolution was taken up, and a motion to lay it on the table was negatived, yeas 101, nays 112. The debate then commenced, which I imagine will not be terminated for some time. One would have imagined that so reasonable a proposition, and one so manifeetly republican, would have met with little or no opposition. Not so, however. And as it is well to call things by their right names, I may as well say it is the first manifestation of a party feeling in the action of the House, bearing upon the next Presidential election. It is a lot and parcel of the modus operandi in the organzation of an opposition party-a White party-and the opposition to the viva voce system is mainly from men hitherto Jackson men and Democrats, not so much to the principle, as for the purpose of concealing their votes at the election of printer, and to avoid that accountability which is due to their constituents. The first demonstration is to be the formation of a nucleus, by the election of a printer, in opposition to the Democratic

In this well understood state of the case, it was to be expected that intense interest would be excited by the debate Messrs Gilmore, Hardin, Briggs and Fillmore took the lead in the opposition, and Messrs Reynolds, McKinley and Miller spoke in support of the resolution.

Perhaps the most violent of the opposition men was your Mr Briggs, who could hardly find words in his vocabulary sufficiently expressive to convey an adequate idea of his high opinion of the ballot system. But this can be better understood and accounted for, when it is recollected that he is one of those gentry who were so well pleased with the operation of that system at the Presidential election, in 1824. I would like to give my views more at length on this subject, but my limits forbid mo.

I regret exceedingly, that Judge White, so able and upright a man, so sincere a friend of the administration, should throw himself into the hands of his enemies, and submit to be their candidate only as the least of two cvi/s. Can it be that he does not know that "his real success is alike out of the question for them, (the opposition) while they entertain the project of supporting a thorough-going Jackson man, merely because he is not Mr Van Buren?" Can it be that these and similar remarks of Dr Walsh, et id omne genus, have passed unobserved by him? If they have not, Judge White's course seems but little less than fatuity.

The Democracy of Massachusetts will go into the contest next fall under excellent auspices, and give their enemies a harder battle than they have fought for some years. The continual increase of Democratic strength since 1828, from six thousand voters to twenty thousand, presents the most encouraging, prospects for the future. We have only to remain true to those great principles of action which have heretofore distinguis sed the course of our party, firmly persisting in our opposition to the encroachments of monopolists, and in our exertions to secure Equal Rights to all, to, finally, prostrate that grasping and overbearing spirit which now controls the commonwealth. The Federalists, as is their usual course, finding their measures becoming odious and their strength departing from them, are resorting to stratagem to effect what they cannot openly the different ballots, stood as follows:accomplish—they have succeeded so well in former times by intriguing with a few unprincipled individuals in our ranks for the purpose of dividing us-getting up new parties, and using other tricks to paralize our power, that they are confident of equal success in similar efforts in time to come-but in this they will be disappointed-they, their arts, their objects, and their tools, are perfectly understood; those who were warm in the warfare against Aristocratic monopolies at the time of the Charlestown Bridge question, and won a glorious victory over the South Boston Bridge monopoly-who, with the Democracy of the Nation, have destroyed that great mother of Iniquity, the United States Bank-who imposed the tax upon the State Banks, and who are for curtailing their issues as fast as the public weal will allow-who have borne conturnely and reproach in endeavoring to establish perfect religious toleration, and have, and are, devoting all their time and energies to accomplish the final ascendancy in Massachusetts of those pure principles of Democracy which are breathed in the Declaration of American Independence, and which distinguished the administration of its immertal author, are not to be turned aside from the great work in which they are enlisted by the shallow schemes of open or secret enomies; with half their present strength they have repeatedly triumphed over the artifices of those who wished to destroy them, and can now safely sat at defiance any renewed effort acters are abhorred and execrated by all honest men, lawyers $3000 to get him clear of the gallows." and whom even they, individually, despise from the bottom of their hearts, to do their dirty work of defamation; but we are not thus to be diverted from the objects of political reformation we are pursuing-our course is onward -we can neither be deceived nor intimidated -treachery, hypocrisy, and malice cannot reach uswe know our duty and mean to perform it-we know our friends, and mean to sustain them-we know our enemies, and mean to defeat them.

He o-day, was consumed in the discussion of a resolution, saw not why the House might not go into the general question now, as well as to commit the bill first, as had and he was fined $2.00, and costs; and if not paid in een proposed. He was not opposed to all corporations, and believed that with proper limitations they were hall hereafter be viva voce; in other words, that the useful for many purposes of public benefit. It was only in modern times that these acts of the legislature had become so alarming an abuse of power, and so dangerous to the equal rights of citizens. The gentleman from Taunton (Mr Baylies) seemed to take it for granted that incorporations had been the policy of the government ever since it existed, and he carried us back 60 years, for a sanction of these acts of incorporation. It was not so. Manufacturing corporations were comparatively new, and if the gentleman had even taken the trouble to look at the index of the statutes, he would not have ventured the assertion he had made. The corporations to which the gentleman referred were town and parish corporations. Corporations of the nature of the one under consideration, began about 1815, and since then there has been a mania for acts of manufacturing incorporation. This was checked in 1821. Previous to that here." ime individual property was not holden for corporate debts: a law then passed making it liable, and while that law lasted until 1830, there were less applications for corporations than at any period subsequent to 1815. As soon as the law of 1830, exempting all but corporate property, passed, grants of incorporations increased, and have gone on increasing ever since. The gentleman from Boston (Mr Sturgis) had told the House, as if to pacify them, that the moment the act of 1830 was repealed all corporations ceased. But would tions at one dash of the pen? Would they ever adopt the old fashioned schoolmaster's rule, and flog the whole school in order to punish the right one? Would they 1830 was an ingenious provision of corporations to perpetuate corporations. They knew that no legislature ever could be brought to sweep away the whole, and therefore they were safe, do as they might. Previous to 1830, the legislature could repeal any individual incorporation, but that power was taken from the legislature by the act of 1830, and that was another ingenious contrivance of corporations. He wished this power 1830, and he proceeded to show how corporations could evade all responsibilities, and leave their creditors without any corporate property to pay their debts, or Mr Peyton, of Tennessee, having obtained the floor, that the object of incorporations was to grant facilities. blanket of the night.—6 months. It was not so-the object was to get rid of liabilities. If it was not so, why not let the act of 1821 stand, making private property liable? Every body knows that the ect of the law of 1830 was designed solely to limit

It had been asserted, encored and echoed here, that the country had grown up under manufacturing incorporations, but had there not been periods when the country had suffered by them, at times when manufacturing stock could not be given away? The rich generally took care of themselves, but the poor were the last to hear of a failure and the first to suffer by it. These corporations were useful, and he did not oppose them, but in order to render them useful they must be limited and controlled and not suffered to absorb all the capital and destroy all the independence of the people.

This doctrine was at first regarded as a heresy, and he had no doubt that when a law was made abolishing ing account of the loss of life at the fire in that city, on primogeniture and giving the eldest son a double portion, that gentleman, had he been a legislator and an eldest son, would have cried out against agrarianism and the levelling system; and when the double portion was also abolished, he would again have exclaimed against agrarianism and the levelling system. Fire.—Yesterday morning, at half past ten o'clock, two fires occurred in building No. 195 Washington street, occupied by T. C. Wales, as a shoe store. The first was in a back-room, occasioned by a fire being kindled under an empty boiler, which bursted, and the red hot fragments were scattered over the apartment and among the shoes; but it was extinguished without much damage to the room. Immediately after, a sudden jar of the store again alarmed the inmates, who rushed up stairs, and, on entering the fifth (attic) story, it was discovered to be filled with smoke, which was caused by a basket of charcoal that had been placed too near an Alger stove and which was one mass of live coals. Seminole Indians .- We stated in our paper of last States authorities, and be removed beyond the Mississippi river, without any resistance. From a gentleman who has since returned from Fort King, we learn that on the 27th December, about 250 of the tribe met and held a talk. About one half were for emigrating peaceably, and the residue were disposed to show fight. One of the chiefs said, he had on hand one hundred and fifty kegs of powder, and that he never would consent to go, until that was burnt. The warriors were generally armed with rifles. Much apprehension was felt by some of the white settlers, that serious mischief would occur before the tribe were removed. Eight or ten families constantly lodge in one house, and armed to meet emergencies. One house has recently been robbed of furniture, beds, &c.

It will be recollected that this is the same tribe of Indians with which General (now President) Jackson, had several engagements. - Florida Courier.

Virginia, especially, will never abandon the right of instruction. The people never ought, and never will, sacrifice to their representatives, this sovereign and sacred right. No talents, no services, will avail, to save the disobedient servant from the wrath of his constituents. SYSTEM OF WRITING, TAUGHT BY B. F. FOSTER, Author of "Prize Essay on the best method of Teaching Writing," "Practical Penmanship," &c.

The System of Carstairs,—as SIMPLIFIED AND TAUGHT BY MR. FOSTER—differs essentially from all others extant. The process of instruction is novel, ingenious and effective, converting, in an incredibly short excepted the second state. period, the most confirmed and irregular scrawl into a style of writing at once bold, free and elegant.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN
Who wish to correct a bad hand-writing can receive lessons either at the establishment, 116, Washing on Street, or at their own residences. HOURS OF INSTRUCTION from 9 A. M. to 4 P. M.

RODGERS' IMPERIAL STOCKS.

(I) Joy's Building, up stairs.

VILLIAM H. ROGERS, most respectfully invites the avitention of Merchant Tailors and the public generally, this new invented Imperial Stocks for the Neck, which for east and elegance very far surpass every thing of the kind hither manufactured in this vicinity. They are cut scientifically; the materials and manner of making are quite different from those in common use, and they may be covered many times, and rotain exactly the same shape as when first made. W. H. R. requests permission to enumerate the usual faults in the common Stocks, viz: 1st, the very inferior materials used; 2d, their sitting away from the chin and exposing the neck, when disagree ably close at the bottom; 3d, the edge at the top being in comfortably tight, as to cause a distortion of the features by moving the head; 4th, that of their bulging out at the sides, by moving the head; 4th, that of their bulging out at the sides, by moving the head a little downwards, which has a most distast of a spearance. By W. H. Rogers' deservedly admired and except the sides of the sides o tensively patronized invention, all these faults are completel obviated. Naval and military gentlemen will find them the most pleasing and durable. Made to order of any texture, by the dozen or single, at the lowest cash prices. for Dressing old and new Fenthers, for the State of Massachusetts, and having put it in operation, he is ready to receive orders from any who may favor him with a call.

The operation of the machine produces the following effect: new feathers are dried of their excessive moisture and purified of their disagreeable and unpleasant odor. The same results are effected on old feathers, and besides they are restored to their original liveliness, even after they have been long compressed together and rendered exceedingly uncomfortable for repose. They are also thoroughly cleaned of all the dirt, perspiration, and pestiferous gasses, which feathers long used must have imbibed, which cannot be otherwise than injurious to health, and which has never failed to excite the wonder of to health, and which has never failed to excite the wonder of those who have witnessed the result.

As this is the first machine of the kind ever put in operation in the United States, which has been highly recommended by physicians and others in all places where it has been established, the subscriber feels confident it will receive immediate attention from all lovers of health, comfort and economy. The operation of dressing the feathers is simple and may be witnessed by any who are dispased to call at the shop, No 102 Cambridge street, where the machine is in successful opera-

'During this time, I suffered very much from mental depression, constant pain in the head and breast, and side, sharp shooting pains over almost the whole system—the food that I ate seemed to over almost the whole system—the food that I ate secmed to pass into my lungs and there remain, giving me great pain at tended with a strong degree of heat. At times, I suffered so much from the pain of indigestion as to be confined to the bed for two or three days. During one of these most severe attacks, I was induced by the advice of a friend to try your Vegetable Medicine. In the course of a few weeks I found myself much better, and by the time I had taken two bottles, considered myself wholly free from the complaint. I continue, on the least feeling of any thing like indigestion or pressure on the least feeling of any thing like indigestion or pressure on the stomach, to take about a table spoonful of it, which, in the course of a few hours, completely restores me. CERTIFICATE. This certifies that my daughter has for a long time been troubled with a bad cough, pains in her side, under the shoulder blade, and in her head; she was unable to eat any kind of sleep was very restless, attended with slight sweats, and in fact she had all the most aggravated symptoms of consumption.—
Frequent journeys into the country had been tried without producing any effect. She was at last recommended to try the American Pulmonary Balsam, by her physician, as it had been known to afford great relief in such cases, and to our great surprise she was in a short time totally relieved from all the above symptoms. I can therefore cordially recommend to every one afflicted with any affection of the lungs or stomach, to try this medicine, as in my opinion, it will much more than realize their expectations.

J6 NATHANIEL GREENE, Post Master. or single bottle, of A. BOYDEN, Hancock-st.

As in all cases, so especially in this, Venders, if they wish to secure the patronage of the public, should be extremely cau-secure the patronage of the public, should be extremely cautious not to sell an article for the Hair which tends to counter; act rather than assist nature.

The virtues of Bear's Oil have been too long tested to need any enlogium; and at this time no one can doubt of its being the very best article for strengthening and promoting the growth of the Hair. An honest prejudice against the use of Bear's Oil has long existed, arising from two causes—the im proper method of purifying it, and the imposition upon the public of a spurious article. That this prejudice may be wholly removed, this article now offered is warranted the pure Oil, rendered more pleasant by the addition of a little perfume—and the possibility of its injuring the Hair is entirely precluded by the manner in which it has been purified. To prevent fraud, the genuine is enclosed in two wrappers, the inside one being signed Arnold Boyden.
